

I strongly oppose increased media consolidation. There already exists far too great a concentration of power in the hands of a few, and their use of that power is often inimical to the public interest---and more importantly, to the future of a truly democratic society.